If the spiritual 'is properly and fully addressed, the moral, social and cultural will fall into place more easily'

Alan Brown formally of The National Society

Rationale

Spirituality is a powerful force that determines what we are, and our self-understanding. It forms the basis for successful relationships, and shapes our behaviour and outlook on life, others and the world.

Spiritual development relates to that aspect of inner life through which we acquire insight into our personal experiences which are of enduring worth.

Aims

- To provide a context of faith, security and positive relationships to support each child's spiritual search.
- To support the spiritual development of each child, regardless of age, sex, ability or cultural background.
- To promote self-awareness and feeling of self-worth.
- To share a set of values, principles and beliefs.
- To develop positive human qualities.
- To develop respect and empathy for other people and their beliefs.
- To build respect for different people's feelings and values.
- To develop the children's enthusiasm to explore and learn through enquiry and first hand experiences.
- To enable the children to value the non-material element of life.
- To encourage time for reflection and stillness.
- To encourage imagination and creativity.
- To develop a sense of awe and wonder at the miracle of creation, life and the natural world.
- To enable the children to experience a sense of enjoyment and fascination in learning about themselves, others, and the world around them, including the immaterial.
- To share Christian stories and respond to Christian festivals, rituals and symbols, particularly those from the Anglican tradition.

Organisation and Implementation

The development of spirituality is as fundamental to a child's education as other areas of learning. Without awe and inspiration, there would be a lack of motivation to learn.

At Naseby we:

'Let all that you do be done in love' 1 Corinthians 16:14

- Value the children's questions and give them space for their own thoughts, ideas and concerns.
- Enable the children to make connections between aspects of their learning.
- Encourage the children to develop and deepen their learning by asking 'why?', 'how?', and 'where?' as well as 'what?'

Spirituality is not taught, but is an inherent interwoven part of all aspects of school life and is nurtured and promoted as a natural element of the curriculum.

In order to facilitate the development of spirituality, Finedon Schools work to:

- Explore values and beliefs, including religious beliefs, and the way in which they impact on peoples' lives.
- Support where children already have religious beliefs and develop these beliefs in ways which are personal and relevant to them as an integral part of the school's practice.
- Engage in enquiry and exploration as part of experiential, first hand learning.
- Be creative and imaginative.
- Reflect and respond to issues in moments of quiet or inspired through music, art, text, film or artefacts.
- Understand human feelings and emotions, the way they impact on people and how an understanding of them can be helpful.
- Work collaboratively with peers, valuing the contribution made by others.
- Respect all, as modelled by staff in their relationships with others.
- Experience silent, calm and tranquil moments which afford time for reflection.
- Work and live in harmony with others in the school and wider community.
- Have confidence to express ideas, views and opinions, even if others do not agree.

In order to facilitate spiritual development the organisation of the school and the environment for learning are such that:

- Everyone involved in the life of the school is valued and seen to be valued.
- Policies and ensuing practices are clearly seen to reflect the worth of individuals.
- Behaviour and people management policies and practices are collectively arrived at and discussed regularly.
- All adults recognise the need to set good examples of mutual respect and considerate behaviour.
- The quality and nature of the learning environment and displays reflect the value placed on pupils and staff.
- Aesthetic awareness is encouraged.
- The atmosphere of the school welcomes differences in beliefs and values and invites everyone to belong.
- The achievements, successes and efforts of everyone are recognised and celebrated.
